THE GREEN AND THE GOLD

(Words by Phoebe Hunter, 1909. Music by Almah McConihay, 1911)

I.

O fair maiden Spring, what hue will you bring
To our cause from your own sunny sheen?
You have brought for your part the hue nearest your heart
And spread Hollins' hillsides with green.
And you, frosty Fall, the most brilliant of all,
What color for us do you hold?
You have laid your fair hand with its touch on our land,
And set our trees flaming with gold.

II.

The Green and the Gold, we have loved it of old,
And to it we will ever be true.
For the memory will last of the days that are past,
And linger, dear Hollins, with you.
For life, when we're young, is a song that is sung,
And must pass as a tale that is told,
But honor and praise, to the end of our days,
We will render the Green and the Gold.

III.

And still at the thought of the good she has wrought,
Each heart must with gratitude thrill—
So to Hollins we'll sing till the mountainsides ring,
Our jewel of woodlands and hill.
There are true, loyal friends that our college life lends,
And treasures of life manifold,
And may kind fortune bless with eternal success
Our Hollins, the Green and the Gold.

In Memory Of Jessie Zeldin

Jesse Zeldin, after a hard year's illness in which he showed his own particular grace, died in August, 1988.

Jesse's scholarship in Russian literature earned a solid reputation for him in that field. But it is as a teacher that Hollins will remember him. When he and Barbara arrived at Hollins, bright young academic couples were a novelty, and they were the apples of Mary Vincent Long's discerning eye. Soon both had gained a reputation as superb teachers of the Humanities, a course then required of freshmen. Teaching the history of ideas was Jesse's forte and he never lost the art. In September, 1987, he was about to begin teaching the Humanities one more time to twenty-three lucky freshmen, when illness interfered. Over the years, when alumnae who have been out for a number of years return to Hollins, they always wanted to see and talk to Jesse.

Happily, Jesse wrote a kind of valedictory message, on the occasion of his retirement, for the English Department alumnae newsletter, Calliope's Comments, July, 1988. It seems appropriate to share his greeting and farewell:

"Not a retreat. Certainly not a rout. How about a withdrawal? Or, as German dispatches in the latter days of the war used to put it, and perhaps most seductively of all, 'A strategic advance to the rear.'? But no matter what jargon it's fun to indulge in, the banal reality remains: retirement. By the time you read this, in other words, I ain't (officially) here no more. Nor, however, am I there. So, as a Bengali friend of mine once put it, 'Where you are?' I'm not really quite sure ... But I promise one thing: that grey, trembling, unrecognized ghost drifting across front quad towards the library is not and will not be me.

"There is always, of course, the way of nostalgia, the evocation in rainbow hues of what never in fact was: Allan Bloom and The Closing of the American Mind. Just as Herr Bloom laments the ignorance of his students, so I assure him, did his professors lament his, and the same goes for all of us, including you who read this and have had, have, or will have children. With half an prejudiced eye anyone who was really there can testify that it wasn't better in the good old days, those days when we were all either grossly underprivileged kids struggling through ten-foot drifts in winter to get to that school we so dearly loved or overprivileged aristocrats who some day, when we were grown up, were going to 'work with people,' because we just loved them, didn't we? I got news for you: it really is a helluva lot better now than it was then. Leaving aside, of course, whatever personal difficulties might be plaguing you and me at the moment. Over all, they don't really make no never mind, do they?

"So what about Holly Colly, since this is by way of being a last testament? a reasonable amount of my thirty-five years there has been fun, no doubt about that, just as a reasonable amount hasn't been. There are people to be remembered (none, I promise you, with nostalgia); some things I'm a bit proud of having accomplished; a few things I've written in the library so that somebody whom I knew and who knew me can resist nostalgia, and so that people who didn't know me can take a riskless peek. Friends. Surely this last is the most important of all — how many good people there are in the world, far more, these past years have taught me, than the wicked. Which simply means that the present, too, is good, just as the un-rain-bowed past was, even if I didn't always know it, and just as what future there may be will be. Which last I hope I can keep in mind when the future is now. All of which adds up, not to goodbye, by to FARE THEE VERY WELL IN-DEED." John Alexander Allen

Golden Beginnings

It was the beginning of the end in September 1988 — the end of the fifteenth decade of Hollins history. The sesquicentennial graduating class entered as freshmen this year, and they arrived to a new era — a time when students assumed more responsibility for themselves and participated more fully in self-governance.

One of the more striking changes to take place in student life was the new policy of 24-hour male visitation on weekends for selected residence halls. After a trial period last spring, provisional rules were enacted allowing students to take responsibility for their visitors. At the same time, hall supervision was accomplished by part-time volunteers working in Roanoke or attending classes during the day and only staying on campus in the evenings. To further allow for the new extent of student self-governance, the Campus Life Committee became the Student Conduct Council, and the Honor Court re-evaluated and strengthened its position.

The new major in Communication Studies, with department head Jane Tumas-Serna, was inaugurated in the fall of 1988, and it was strongly supported by the student body. The new major represented a victory for interested students who had spent hours assisting faculty and administration in designing the required course of study.

Construction on the new gymnasium approached the finishing point, and plans began to renovate Tayloe Gymnasium to accommodate some indoor sports more fully. To commemorate the expansion of Hollins's athletic facilities, a project was undertaken to design a mascot for the Hollins athletic teams and fill a 147-year-old void.

It was a year of beginnings for Hollins, in which many aspects of residential and academic life were changed. But Hollins remains essentially the same, and the changes only reflect its essential purpose and truth: to prepare women for life and for the challenges of the world.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITIES

A part of the Hollins experience is getting involved with clubs and activities on the college campus. The wide variety of clubs makes it possible for anyone to get involved if they choose to do so. The purposes of the clubs are as varied as the personalities of their members: stimulating interest in the fine arts, promoting awareness of political issues, getting students involved in the community, uniting students in religious fellowship. Involvement in clubs and activities is a very important aspect of Hollins life that not only contributes to school spirit, but prepares students for life after college.

Honor Court is the oldest tradition at Hollins. It serves as a motivating and uniting force promoting honesty and integrity within the student body. This year the Honor Court has promoted student awareness throughout the campus by posting its decisions. Training for the court involves discussions with local lawyers in weekly meetings. All members are elected by the student body. Following tradition, the court wears symbolic black robes last worn by the court in 1964.

Group Leaders hold an important position in the Hollins Community. They are responsible for orienting students to the campus, its facilities and its traditions. Each group leader aides new students in getting to know their advisor and completing the overall good impression of our institution. Each year Group Leaders are chosen by the Dean of Students Staff. Training begins before classes resume in September, and Group Leader responsibilities continue throughout the year.

The first Hollins Yearbook was published in 1897 with no color and a few photographs. In the following years, as publishing techniques improved, more pictures were included making a more complete view of not only the campus but the students and styles of the times.

The Spinster organization has many facets which offer different challenges: Leadership, Photography, Writing, Artwork etc. Editors are chosen each year by the publications board.

The 1988 soccer season was one of steady growth and progress. The team consisted primarily of freshmen coached by Kim Vieira, who was new to the team as well. Vieira grew up playing soccer in Brazil, participating throughout college. He is still actively involved.

Season highlights included victories over rival Sweet Briar (3-0) as well as Randolph-Macon Woman's College. With a young team, a foundation has been established for the next four years. Although the team had its share of losses, it learned many new tactics.

At the end of the season, four players made the All-ODAC teams. Margaret Baker made the First Team and Sharon Nuckols, Win Abernathy and Amy Law made the Second Team.

The Hollins College field hockey team ended their season on October 25. The team had a tough 2-10 season, losing to many teams by only one goal. Injury-ridden, the team at one point in their season was missing two starters. Despite these injuries, the Hollins team pushed on. Towards the end of their season they were playing nationally-ranked ODAC champions and losing to them in overtime. The spirit and enthusiasm within the team kept them from giving up.

Highlights included victories over Mary Baldwin and Salem College. Hollins had its toughest loss with the first round of the ODAC tournament against number two seed, Lynchburg College. Hollins held the nationally ranked team to 0-0 until the last 12 minutes of the game. During these last minutes of the second half, Lynchburg scored its first and only goal of the game. However, this did not intimidate Hollins, who had many attempts on the goal afterwards but could not sweep one in.

Under the leadership of Kissy McCrory, the Hollins field hockey team was a winner in many eyes this year and will continue to carry on the tradition next year. Wendy Emory made 1st Team All-ODAC and 2nd Team Regional All-American, which is a first for hockey.

The 1988 volleyball season fell short of the expectations of the team, but the players believe they had a strong finish on which they will build next year. Hollins finished with a record of 5-2 and reached the semi-finals of the Salem Tournament in Winston-Salem, NC.

The team received a new coach, David Turk, who was hired over the summer. Turk is a coach and teacher at Salem High School. He was aided in his coaching by his wife, Renee. Efforts for a pre-season camp failed to work, putting the team several weeks behind their opponents; this became a factor in some early, close matches.

The Hollins team had many talented freshmen, including Peggy McKinnie, who was once ranked for serving in ODAC. Returning players provided some experience through the strong hitting of Cathryne Cate and Burton Upchurch, as well as the steady playing of Margaret Ryder, Vanessa Sobers, and Elke Goedecke. The 1988 team was led by Samantha Lewis and Kat North.

Both the coach and the team have a positive outlook for next season. With the addition of a new gym, a pre-season, and some recruiting, the team feels they will be strong contenders in ODAC next year.

Tennis — A Season Of Improvement

For this young team, the 1988 Fall Tennis season went very well. The team consisted of several new members with only one returning player; Sue Twitmyer. Alison Lipshultz, Sue Twitmyer, Catherine Butler, Christy Luth, Lisa Robertson, and Page Robson led the team, while Nancy Turbidy and Kate Bonsa proved to be very promising assets to the team.

Coach Nolan stressed on a positive note how rapidly the team learned new techniques and strategies. Each members did their own growing through hard work and sacrifice. The tennis year is split into Fall and Spring segments, which make a very short five week season.

The team is looking positively towards the upcoming Spring matches.

Hollins Equestrians

The ODAC team was chosen by the riding staff and consisted of the best horse/rider combinations who could compete in Hunter Trial and Horse Shows in an Equitation. This team competed at the Sweet Briar Hunter Trials and at the R-MWC Hunter Trials in the fall. They were very successful in both shows, and achieved ranking as High Point Team at the R-MWC show.

Horse showing at Hollins also includes shows in which riders compete at open shows against not only other schools in the area, but other professionals and amateurs. In these events, the horse as well as the rider may be judged. Many Hollins riders, not only team members, compete in the Hollins College Horse Show and the Rochbridge Hunt Horse Show. Hollins students were champions and reserve champions in many events at these shows.

The intercollegiate team was decided upon through a series of tryouts. Hollins competed in five shows in the fall: Ferrum, Hollins, Southern, Sem., Virginia Inter-mont, and Virginia Tech. Hollins riders compete in open, intermediate, novice over fences and on the flat.

"Hollins has become a very strong school in the equestrian sports," says Nancy Peterson, director of the program. "By having so many strong show riders from around the country coming into the program, the teams had to be decided by the tryout system."

Along with Peterson, the coaching/teaching staff consists of Liz Courter, with whom Peterson shared ODAC Coach of the Year honors for the 1987-1988 season; and elise Roschen, who also serves as stable manager and coach.

At Hollins in March the 1988 Lacrosse season began with two IFWLA weekends. These allowed twelve to fourteen teams each weekend from all over the East Coast to play minigames to prepare for the season.

Three players distinguished themselves during the season with the help of the team. Anne Land, Sabrina Fossett, and Dandridge Keyser were chosen by the Virginia Women's Lacrosse Association to compete in Baltimore at the South Lacrosse Tournament.

"The team is getting stronger every year," Coach McCrory claimed. "They are an excellent, dedicated group." The team lowered their scoring margin from past years considerably.

Fencing for Hollins requires much patience and precision. Each athlete strives to obtain their individual goals which unite the team scores. The team is divided into varsity and J.V. A typical match is similar to a round robin. Each four member team competes against a rivalry team. Scoring being one point per jab leading to a top score of five points. Team totals determine the victor.

Adult Students Have Life Also

Hollins Horizon is an adult baccalaureate degree program for women who have been out of school for some time and who are seeking a bachelor's degree. The adult women share classes and extra-curricular life with the younger students. The only difference is that they live off campus, have a family and, most likely, a career to maintain. But none of this prevents the adult students from having a good time. There are monthly get-togethers on and off campus for building friendships with other adult students and with those of the traditional age.

"Home away from home" for these women is one of the "hill houses," Rathhaus. But the adult student also spends time in the library, the snack bar (where she consumes the same kind of junk food as the typical student), and, like all others there to learn in the classroom. These adult students share in the student life on campus by being involved in clubs, societies, and publications like the Hollins Columns and Spinster.

The Tinker Day picnic scheduled for Front Quad was moved into Moody Dining Hall with the authentic goods of chicken, apples, and Tinker cake.

On Saturday, parents had a variety of choices of activities including the horse show, a forum exclusively for parents, mini-classes, and a trip to the Market. The day proceeded with the President's Reception held in the Green Drawing Room, and the night was topped off by the Parents Weekend Dance.

Sunday provided a worship service and for the more energetic, a day at the Ropes Course. A little rain couldn't hurt the morale on the Hollins campus from October 21st to 23rd. The smiles from proud parents and students were sunshine enough.

Fall Weekend

"Masquerade, Fall Weekend 1988, was a real success," according to Campus Activities Chair Blair Kempton. This was evident as Hollis students and their dates danced and partied the weekend away, a weekend which Campus Activities began planning in July. The hard work came together in the mixers, culminating in Saturday's "Surprises at Midnight."

Great entertainment was available throughout the weekend, as Friday night featured the progressive sounds of Ben Friedman and his band. Saturday evening, Moody was transformed into a masquerade ball with music by Baby Huey and the Babysitters. The weekend came to a close as the Convertibles played classic rock, ending Fall Weekend on a good note.

DRESS

EXPENSIVE dressing is an absolute requirement at the Hollins Sulphur Resort. In order to make the standing of this establishment equal that of the best in the country, we are compelled to require our patrons to pay a great deal of attention to their external adornment. At all public entertainments, patrons are expected to wear lace waists, with gaily colored scarfs, and large bows of variegated tulle under the chin or ear, and elaborate back-combs. Our climate is so extremely mild that lingerie waists, pumps with silk hose, and short sleeves are encouraged, even in our coldest weather. All baggage will be examined by Misses Parkinson and Buckner and all flannels will be confiscated.

A Hollins Girl's Schedule.

The daily routine which Miss A. uses in the process:

- 7-7.30 A. M.—Miss A. dresses.
- 7.30-8—Breakfasts.
- 8-8.15—Buys stamps.
- 8.15-9—Recites German.
- 9-10—Writes to mamma.
- 10-11—Talks to Miss C., unless inclined to take a vocal lesson.
- 11-12—Practises.
- 12-1 P. M.—Chats with roommate.
- 1-2—Dines.
- 2-3—Rests for an hour.*
- 3-4—Gossips with any one she can find to join her.
- 4-5—By this time Miss A. needs a constitutional, so goes for a walk.
- 5-6—She waits in the main hall for mail delivery.
- 6-7—Miss A. has supper.
- 7-8—Practises.
- 8-9—Gossips.
- 9-10—Gossips.
- 10-11—Gossips.
- 11-12—Gossips.

*Since writing out the above schedule, we are informed that Miss A. has decided to deny herself her hour of rest. She now practises diligently from 2 to 3 P. M.

Regulations.

Particular attention is requested to the following regulations, viz:

1. All articles of clothing should be marked with the full name of the owner.
2. A list of books and articles of clothing should be given to the matron at the time of the pupil's entrance.
3. The pupils will not receive visitors, unless they present proper letters of introduction, or are personally known to some one of the officers.
4. Young ladies will not be allowed to receive the "attentions" of gentlemen while connected with this Institute.
5. No books or periodicals will be received by pupils without the knowledge and consent of the principal.
6. It is by no means desirable that pupils should be furnished with pocket money, but all funds intended to defray incidental expenses should be deposited with the superintendent.
7. Patrons are requested to give particular instructions in regard to correspondence.
8. Purchasing articles on credit is positively forbidden.
9. When pupils remain at the Institute during vacation, they will be subject to the control of the superintendent.
10. All communications should be addressed to the superintendent, Botetourt Springs Post Office, Roanoke county, Virginia. Persons coming to this place by way of the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, should stop at Salem depot. An omnibus will run to that point daily for the first week of the session. Should any come after that time, they should give information as to the time of their arrival by letter. Those who come by the "Valley stage" should stop at Clover Dale, two miles from the Institute.

1852: The school drops the male department and becomes The Female Seminary at Botetourt Springs.

The Spinster Staff 1989

The 1988-89 Spinster Staff would like to thank the following people for their encouragement and energy. Without their effort this book would not be the same.

Anna Kirkwood
Betty Lafon
Charles Morlang
Sky Dreece and staff
Linda Steele
Eric Trethewey
Bill Wrobel
Hollins Publications Board

May all future Spinster staffs find the strength and vision to strive for a quality representation of our beloved Hollins. And may each of you enjoy and cherish the Golden Memories captured on these pages of the ninety-second Spinster.

Sincerely,

Caroline Cremo
